DATA ANALYTICS

Data Analytics is the science of examining raw data with the purpose of drawing conclusions about that information. Data Analytics involves applying an algorithmic or mechanical process to derive insights. For example, running through a number of data sets to look for meaningful correlations between each other. It is used in a number of industries to allow the organizations and companies to make better decisions as well as verify and disprove existing theories or models.

The focus of Data Analytics lies in inference, which is the process of deriving conclusions that are solely based on what the researcher already knows.
